DARROW OPENS HIS GUNS FOR DEFENSE

Washington to Be Political Headquarters

By Robert Small
Special Correspondent.
Copyright 1924.
Washington—Washington is to be the grand political headquarters of the presidential campaign.
Nominally the republicans are to call Chicago their headquarters but President Coolidge, the candidate and chief asset of the party, will remain in Washington until election time and will naturally be the central figure in constant political consultations.
The democrats are to establish their headquarters here with branches in New York and Chicago, and possibly in Denver and San Francisco. The democrats have just contracted for 25 rooms in one of the newest office buildings in the capital. This is the most pretentious "headquarters" the followers of Jackson and Jefferson have attempted in the history of the party. It indicates the prosperity they expect to have around the old war chest these next few months.
No Name Party Also.
The La Follette-Wheeler outfit, which has not yet selected an official name for itself, will also make headquarters in Washington. Its campaign executive committee has been selected and will function as the national committee in the older parties. The La Follette outfit (continued on page 6)

Near Hundred Have Narrow Escape

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Gales, Pa. — The bodies of 10 miners who met death last night when an explosion wrecked a section of the Gates mine of the H. C. Frick Coke company, were brought to the surface shortly after dawn today. Seventy-five miners were at work when the blast came and a check of the company list showed that sixty-five reached safety.
Coroner S. A. Baltz, who arrived at the mine shortly after the report of the explosion reached him at Uniontown, remained here through the night and was prepared today to order an inquest. State mine inspectors aided him in his investigation.
IN COAST FIRE
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Yakima, Wash. — Fire which for a time threatened much of the business district of this city was contained this morning after a vicious fight. The flames destroyed about one and a half blocks of fruit and vegetable stores, and caused a loss estimated at $250,000. The police said they had evidence the fire was of incendiary origin, but two men having reported they saw two men running from one of the burning buildings shortly before the flames broke out.

PERSIA IS WARNED TO PROTECT AMERICANS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Washington — State department officials prepared today to formally ask the Persian government to take immediate measures to protect American citizens in that country from attacks and insults to natives understood to be hostile toward foreigners since the killing of Major Robert J. Butler, American, by a Persian youth, and developments following that affair.
Decision of the department to take this action followed receipt of advice from Joseph S. Kornfeld, American minister, telling of insults to Mrs. Imbrie, widow of the former consul for which a young Persian was said to be responsible.
According to the minister's dispatch, the Persian youth grabbed the veil worn by Mrs. Imbrie, and attempting to tear it from her and, at the same time, expectorating upon her person. (The reported outrage was said to have occurred at Tehran, last Tuesday.)
The native policeman reported to have been some distance away from the place where Mrs. Imbrie was attacked, but who is believed to have witnessed the affair, made no attempt to protect the woman or interfere with her assailant, the dispatches said.

Fire Bug Is Under Arrest in Juneau

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Juneau — The origin of at least three mysterious fires in Wisconsin in past years is believed to have been determined in a confession alleged to have been made to Wm. A. Greenwood, deputy state fire marshal, by Frank Radtke, an employee of the state highway commission in Juneau county.
Radtke first confessed to the firing of a farm building of Ignatz Peterle, near Watertown, July 12, according to Greenwood. Later his confession embraces the firing of a barn belonging to Dr. Klein, near Watertown, and one belonging to Emil Richter, also of Dodge county, the investigator states. The only motive given was that the defendant desired to see the building burn.
When arraigned yesterday here, Radtke waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to the circuit court on an arson charge.

FISHER BODY TO RESUME OPERATION

Chevrolet Plant May Also Get Back into Production Soon.
Conditions the past two weeks have looked more favorable to Janesville industry and is indicated in the announcement that the Fisher Body company will commence production Monday, after a several weeks' letup, operating on a small scale with a force of 75 at work. It was announced at the Chevrolet Motor company offices that it is contemplated to start as a body of cars there the first week in August. Prior to the shut down a force of from 375 to 525 was employed at the Fisher Body.
Next week will see gradual increase in the size of the force up to 125 men, which will be maintained for the present. A small production schedule has been ordered for August for the local plant.
Warm weather and better conditions generally prevailing for the farmer are expected to stimulate buying in the automobile business which will place the local concerns in a position where it will be able to employ somewhere near the force that worked there last winter.

MAN KILLED BY 2,300-VOLT SHOCK

Dane County Coroner to Conduct Investigation into Electrocuting.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Evanston — Coroner Joseph H. Campbell of Dane county launched an investigation, Friday, into the electrocution of Andrew Larson, 71, of Stone, Dane county, instantly killed Friday afternoon when he grasped a fallen wire containing 2,300 volts. George Anderson, living across the road, attempted to pull Larson away from the wire and was knocked down by the shock.
Larson was about to cross the road to bring Anderson to Evanston and is believed to have reached down to remove the wire and got the full force of the current. Considerable feeling was kindled in the community over the tragedy, it being felt by some that the wire should have been removed before. It was reported that it was borne in the ground Wednesday by a falling tree limb.
Funeral services for Mr. Larson will be held at his home at 2:30 p. m. Monday, and burial will be in the Danish cemetery near there.

JOHNSON - SECKEL EVEN IN FINAL ROUND AT GOLF

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Chicago — H. R. Johnson, St. Paul, and Albert Seckel, Chicago, were all square at the end of the third round of the annual golf championship at Hinsdale today.
Probably never in the history of the final and fairways and greens were so soft enough so officials had to wipe mud from the balls on nearly every green.
Seckel was playing an uphill game most of the way, but the effectiveness of his short runups and his putts cancelled the handicap.
The state had arranged for the detectives and eye specialists who traced the spectators to their own to testify today, and expected to complete the final testimony against the youths before adjournment, Monday and finish the prosecution's case then or Tuesday. Sixty-five witnesses have taken the stand so far for the defense.

BURIED UNDER LOAD OF SAND BUT IS RESCUED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Evanston — While loading sand in his wagon at the Hinsdale golf course, Albert North suddenly found himself buried beneath tons of sand when the side of the pit caved in. He was only able to move his arms and legs, but, obtaining air from underneath the wagon which fell on top of him, Kenneth Holden, who happened to be with him, ran immediately for help and secured several telephone linemen who dug him out. Mr. North is very badly bruised especially about the head. The wall was probably loosened from the recent heavy rains.

300 TELEPHONES ARE STILL OUT

With close to 300 telephones in Janesville and others on farm lines still out of order from the storm, the early part of the week, the Wisconsin Telephone company here has been augmented by two cable crews from Milwaukee to repair the damage. Lightning burned holes in the insulation of both cables. Falling trees broke overhead wires. A ditch digging machine severed a cable at Prairie and St. Mary's avenues.
Most of the trouble has been on South Main street, Sinclair street, Court street, Prairie and St. Mary's avenues and others are scattered. It is necessary because of cable trouble to string overhead wires to give service to 12 subscribers.

Grills Detective Who Told Story of Leopold's Talk

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Chicago — Insinuating that the state's testimony which credited Nathan Leopold Jr., with a desire to plead guilty before a "friendly judge" was a fabrication, Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for Leopold and Richard Loeb, struck hard today at this evidence.
It was the first time since the boys pleaded guilty to the kidnapping and murder of Robert Frank that their counsel had challenged the truth of any material fact brought out by the witness summoned by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney.
James J. Gortland, detective sergeant, drew the fire of the veteran attorney for the defense.
After bringing out that all other conversation between the policeman and Leopold had been recorded in some way, in notes or reports, but that the "friendly judge" remark, which had been put down, either in writing or shorthand, Mr. Darrow asked: "Isn't it true that this whole story of the conversation in which 21,000 words were said by a prisoner, a 'friendly judge', was a pure fabrication, concocted for the purpose of intimidating the court Gortland?"
It is not declared that Gortland's testimony of yesterday's short Saturday session was rather perfunctory. An opinion further identified the glasses found near the bodies of the boys as having been placed, as having been made for Leopold.
A railroad clerk added a bit of evidence to the state's claims showing that the boys tried to get a second railroad letter to "Frank's" father by leaving it on the telegram rack of a parlor car in a Chicago depot.

"A Friendly Judge"

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Chicago — Upon the pair of horn rimmed glasses, dropped by Nathan Leopold Jr., when he and Richard Loeb stuffed the body of Robert Frank into a railroad car, the state's attorney today made a point of the judicial hearing which is to determine their punishment.
It was these spectacles that gave investigators their first tangible clue to the identity of the slayers. Hundreds of optometrists searched their records to determine the person for whom they had been prescribed.
The state had arranged for the detectives and eye specialists who traced the spectators to their own to testify today, and expected to complete the final testimony against the youths before adjournment, Monday and finish the prosecution's case then or Tuesday. Sixty-five witnesses have taken the stand so far for the defense.

First Sharp Break

Detective Sergeant James Gortland, who yesterday told of conversations with Leopold, in which the college student defendant revealed his reactions to the crime he had committed, was stubbornly cross-examined by Attorney Clarence Darrow as to the style of his notes, and his experience as a police examiner.
The action of the defense was virtually every statement in chief was examined to the most minute detail.
It was Gortland who yesterday, as the state's sixty-seventh witness before chief justice John R. Cavender, the preliminary hearing, stood "don't you know this story of your talk about the friendly judge in a pure fabrication for the purpose of intimidating the court?"
"I don't," was the response.
"You talked this over with other men?"
Detective on Stand.
"Yes, with newspaper reporters, with relatives at Fairbury, Ill., and with officers on the streets."
"Where did you talk with Assistant State's Attorney Savage about it?"

SOWING SEEDS OF DECAY BY ATTACKS ON INSTITUTIONS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Madison — Since the year 1900 there has been liberally sown in the government the seeds of decay, was the statement made last night by Dr. W. A. Ganfield, president Carroll college, Waukesha, before the annual meeting and banquet of the Christian Commercial Travelers of America.
"The whole history of government from the beginning of time to 1923 is one of experiment and failure, from 1789 to 1900 one of development and service; but from 1900 to this very day are being rapidly sown the seeds of decay," Dr. Ganfield said.
Turning to the public health, he said: "The whole history of political degeneration, Dr. Ganfield said in part:
"Any man who loves his country and any man who loves his fellow man and lives between two great seas, might better today be on his knees thanking God for the blessings which we enjoy, than making attacks upon the institutions that have done so much to make our nation strong."
"The world does not so much need the man of genius as it does need men whose characters are (Continued on page 11)

HURLEY WOMAN IS HELD FOR TRIAL ON CONSPIRACY COUNT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Hurley — Mrs. Emma Sigler was bound over to circuit court for trial late Friday in municipal court here when her hearing was concluded. She was charged with paying $400 to Andrew Gudinski, now serving a life sentence at Waupun, for the killing of her husband who was murdered May 1. She did not take the stand and the defense introduced no witnesses and made no arguments.
A signal was to be given from the cemetery in Ironwood, Mich., little more than a stone's throw across the Montreal river to the cell in the Iron county jail, where Gudinski was confined, so that he would be ready to break jail, it developed in the testimony at the hearing. Mrs. Sigler was to support Gudinski in Mexico for a period of two years.

So it is with those who are dancing to success in the selling game. The old timers are falling to the wayside. They are passed quickly by persons who make use of the classified section of The Gazette.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Chicago — Hog prices as well as grain values soared today. Choice hogs brought $7.75, the top price since October, 1922, when $10.45 was paid. Less than a month ago predictions that the hog market in Chicago would reach its peak in October 1 of this year, were smiled at.

Wheat today got above $1.50 a bushel at Minneapolis, the first North American market to reach that goal. Chicago prices followed, breaking all high records for the season, and showing a maximum advance today of 6 1/2 cents.

CHARGES HUSBAND MADE THREATS TO MURDER HER

Jessie L. Wells, Evansville, filed a divorce complaint in the Rock county circuit court Saturday in face of the fact she alleges her husband threatened to kill her in the event of divorce proceedings. The husband, Lyle E. Wells, also lives in Evansville.
The complaint charges personal violence, capacity after the plaintiff intended funds which the defendant sought to gain control of, according to the charges. On the sale of a farm, the wife invested the funds in two houses and claims the defendant threatened "dire vengeance" for not dealing one of the houses in his name.

MISTRESS WILDING:

A ROMANCE, BY RAFAEL SABATINI.

(Author of "Scaramouche," "Capt. Corcoran," "Fortune's Fool," etc.)

He fell back, crimson from chin to brow. He stifled the wrath that welled up, threatening to choke him. He was a short-necked man, and his ears—as Trunchard had once reminded him—were a prey to unpleasing, and surely he was never nearer it than at that moment. He made her a nervous, trembling, almost in two before her in a very irony of deference; then, drawing himself up again, he turned and left her.

The plot which with some pride he had hatched and the reward he looked to eulm from it, were now to his soul as ashes to his lips. What if it profit him to destroy Monmouth? So that Anthony Wilding lived? For whether she loved Wilding or not, she was Wilding's wife. Wilding, nominally, at least, was master of that which Sir Rowland coveted; not her heart, indeed, but her ample fortune. Wilding had been a stumbling-block to him since he had come to Bridgewater, but for Wilding he might have run a smooth course; he was still fool enough to hug that dear illusion to his soul. Somewhere in England, he had a dead ally—this Wilding lurked, an outlaw, whom any knight might shoot down at sight. Sir Rowland swore he would not rest until he knew that Anthony Wilding, numbered the earth no more—least ways, not the surface of it.

He went forth to seek Newlingford. The merchant had sent his message to the rebel King, and had word in answer that His Majesty would be graciously pleased to support Mr. Newlingford's claim. On the following evening, attended by a few gentlemen of his immediate following, Sir Rowland received the news with satisfaction. He decided to think that Mr. Wilding, still absent, Heaven knew where, would not be of the party. It was reported that on the Monday, Monmouth was to march to Gloucester, hoping there to be joined by his cheshire friends, so that it seemed Sir Rowland had not miscalculated his plan. A day's foot march, and, confiding to win out of Bridgewater, rode off to Somerset to concert with Lord Eversham concerning the men he would need for his undertakings.

That night Richard made foreboding talk of the undertakings to him and to Ruth, leaving as he does the undetermined, to shew himself engaged in daring enterprises. Enslaving his friend Sir Rowland, he held forth with proximity upon the great assemblage to be at the castle, and, listening to him, was proud of his zeal, the sincerity of which it never entered his mind to doubt.

Diana listened, too, but without illusions concerning Master Richard, and she kept her conclusion to herself. During the afternoon of the morning, which was Sunday, Sir Rowland returned to Bridgewater, his ladies, and all pretensions made. He completed his arrangements, and towards eight o'clock that night the twenty men sent by Eversham, they had slipped singly into the town—beginning in the church at the back of Mr. Newlingford's house.

It was just about the same hour that Mr. Wilding, a dull, worn, and dust-cloaked in the pure road, into Bridgewater, and made his way to the sign of The Ship in the High Street, overlooking the cross where Trunchard was killed. The street was almost empty, save with his men to the women Ferguson was proceeding to the army in the castle. Wilding, having seen his house, Mr. Wilding, all duty as he was, repeated straight to the castle to report himself to Monmouth.

He was informed that His Majesty was in council. Nevertheless, urging that his news was of importance, he begged to be instantly announced. After a pause, he was ushered into a lady's room, and there, in the faded daylight, King Monmouth sat in council with Grey and Wade, Matthews, Spoke, Ferguson, and others. The king, of the table stood a sturdy country fellow, unknown to Wilding. It was Godfrey, the spy, who was to act as his guide across Solgumoor that night.

MINERS ONCE GOT $112
Shanahan, Pa.—The increase in miners' wages during the last 70 years was $112. The daily pay in 1853, the old records show, was $1.12 for the average day worker, who now get $5.40. Opposite the mine of one man his pay allowance for a week was $5.75. In those days ten hours constituted a day's work, two more than the present schedule.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

INDEPENDENT HUSBAND
Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young married woman 19 years of age and have a baby boy nine months old. At first I was heartbroken because my husband didn't pay any attention to him and I thought he didn't love him, but now it is different and he spends all the time with the baby and rarely notices me. I used to go to dances and have a good time and my husband wanted to do it as much as I did. Now when we are invited I would like to go, but he never comes and stay with the baby so that we could go, but he says he isn't interested and won't take me. It seems to me I am home all the time taking care of the house and baby, and I get tired of it and want to have a good time again. I think I am too young to have to settle down this way and never go any place. My husband is 22 and I should think he would enjoy a dance or two now and then. What would you advise me to do?

DOROTHY.

Your husband is too young to want to settle down. I think you will find that after a month or two he will be a little restless too and will be glad to have your mother come to stay with the baby while you go away for the evening. When he has children, however, I think their place is at home with them. An occasional dance or party is all right, but it is unfortunate when the parents go pleasure seeking in the evening and the sweetness of evenings at home together with their child. Do not worry about your husband's lack of interest in you, because, because, he will take an interest again. You ought to appreciate the fact that the father of your child wants to stay at home and does not go out evening after evening to cool rooms, leaving you at home alone, except for the baby.

THORNY PATH TO LOVE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: It seems as though I am of help to you as you could be. I have a lot of sympathy for any one who is not allowed to be with the one she loves. My parents object to the boy I love, but I have gone with him when I could for three years and I know I love him, but my folks say that they don't think that I love him. I have tried all the ways that I know of to win them over, but it doesn't do any good. I think every one ought to be allowed to love whomever he or she wishes. My father is angry with them over, but I don't want to earn some money to buy things that I want, but I tell her that I want what money can't buy. Please tell me what to do.

LOVESOME BOBBY.
I agree with you that it is wrong for parents to interfere too much in their children's love affairs. Of course there is something to be said for the matter, and when very young people show lack of judgment it is only natural that their parents should try to guide them. Also parents are justifiably in a right to prevent marriage to a drunken or good-for-nothing person. If you know the young man you love to be worthy, stick to your purpose, and when you are older marry for love and do not let any one stand in the way.

SIS: I would suggest that you get books on the subject of cooking, and ask your husband to suggest some thing the men would enjoy. You might use your milk in creamed chicken and the cream on fresh fruit or rice pudding.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred is happy to advise all mothers about the care and feeding of their children of any age, or on any subject which does not belong in the field of the doctor.

Mrs. A. O. writes:

"I have read your column daily and am now coming to you for advice. My baby weighed 9 1/2 pounds at birth and now at seven months old only weighs 14 pounds. I have lately put him on milk in this proportion—30 ounces of milk, 12 of water and one ounce of sugar. I give him seven ounces every three hours. He sleeps well all night and is very good natured."

Answer
This is the usual procedure when one is unable to have a doctor, wash out the daily. The formula should be good and used with a bit of caution. Twenty-one of milk, and proportionately more water, and the same amount of sugar would be better and less taxing to his digestion, milk he increases his weight. To overfeed almost surely brings indigestion in

HOT WEATHER ACTIVITY

Most people think if they didn't have to work they would mind the heat. It has been my experience that there is nothing like keeping your mind and body occupied with the heat of weather conditions. But one can "take it easy" in hot weather. One doesn't have to expend one's energy in hard work and violence in order to get things done. In fact efficiency makes easy even motions is the one who does the most, not the one who rushes at things. Try doing your work lazily, especially in the hot weather. Try to get the most strenuous things done in the cool of the morning and afternoon. When the sun is high and the day hottest. And try to cultivate the habit of moving actively but quietly and easily and you will not feel the heat so much.

Beauty Chats

By EONA KENT FURRIES

FOR CONVALESCENTS
"My first baby was born a week ago," one of my readers writes me, "and as I'll have more time than I need to, after I get up, I want to begin some beauty treatments. I never did anything to improve my looks, but when I see my baby's skin and look at my complexion—well, you understand don't you. And what about my figure?"

To and at a complexion like a baby's is getting a task if not an impossible standard. But no woman after childbirth need have a worse figure than she had before. Indeed, I've known that event to improve many figures. It all depends on how you treat yourself before and after the birth. My reader is quite right in her desire to improve her looks and should begin with hair, tonics and child cream, and such things while she lies resting. I only hope she won't get up too soon, not if she values strength and a good figure; doctors nowadays are too apt to get their patients up and about, I think, four weeks should be spent in bed, the last one varied by sitting up in the room, two weeks more resting with the feet up on a couch or chair as much as possible.

It takes six weeks for all parts of the body to get back to normal size and position after childbirth, therefore it seems obvious that one should rest for six weeks. One should also exercise to help those muscles. Lie on the bed or the floor, bring one knee up to the chest, stretch the leg out and very slowly lower it, bring it up to the chest again, stretch out, and so on, half a dozen times. Repeat with the other leg, then with both together. This reduces the abdomen and does wonders in strengthening various muscles.

S. W. A. K.—You can tell if the heated iron is injuring your hair by its conditions. Such hair is often much shorter than the part which is not curled and sometimes it loses lustre and gets very dry. An occasional curling with a heated iron should not matter very much, however. Use simple bleaches such as cucumber or lemon juice to lighten the red spots left from plumes.

H. V.—A girl of 18 1/2 years, height 5 feet 3 inches, is about normal at 113 pounds.

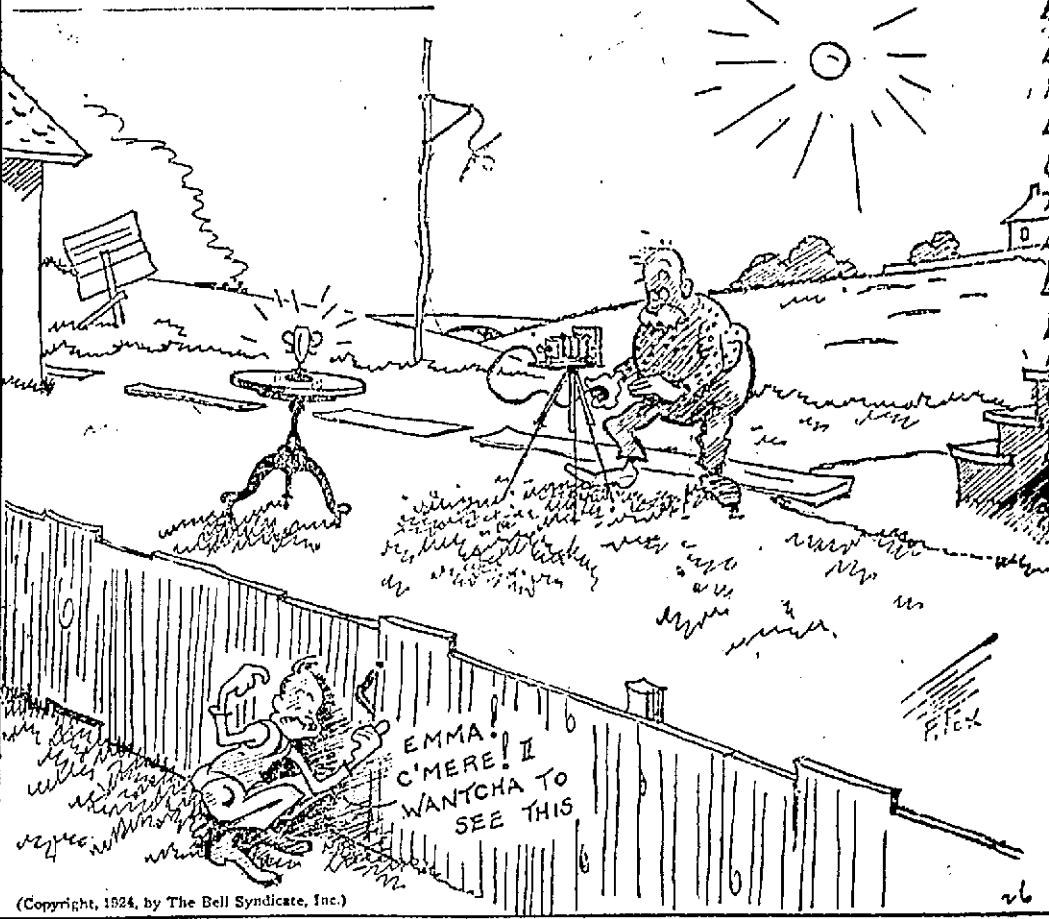

Nineteen—If you stop using rouge your skin will improve, but it must take quite a long time now to contract all those enlarged pores.

Remove all soil from your skin every night by using cleansing cream. Then close the pores by dashing very cold water over the skin or by rubbing it with a small piece of ice. If you do this you will avoid having enlarged pores in each of those enlarged pores.

"Do you believe that history repeats itself?" asked the anxious waiter.

"I certainly do," replied the customer.

The late John S. Sinner, a member of the New York bar, a generation ago, was totally bald.

Speaking to Joseph H. Choate one day about the approaching marriage of his daughter, Mr. Sinner said: "I would be absurd to give a Vanderbilt a costly gift. It should be to find something not intrinsically valuable, but interesting because it is rare."

"Nothing easier, John," Mr. Choate replied. "Just send her a lock of your hair."

Seeing the family doctor passing, Mr. Choate called him in and inquired: "Have you some medicine suitable for apoplexy?"

"Why, yes, I triple so," answered the doctor.

"Kindly be seated," said the woman. "That where is the case of apoplexy?"

Sunday—The Fortieth Door, serial, chapter 2.

AT THE APOLLO.
Hal Roach, famous director, uses a magnificent horse in the picture, "The King of Wild Horses," an animal that has trained especially for the picture. The general theme. At last the man-hating beast learns to become devoted to his master. Edna Murray, serial queen, and Lew Barry, give to the picture the love angle. Pat Hartigan has the role of the villainous ranch foreman, Sidney De Grey that of the father, and Charles Farrott the weakling brother.
A board of health quarantine, scenes in her photograph gallery and a wealthy lover are obstacles in the romance of Laura La Plante in "Young Ideas." Roy Burnes, the photographer, and Buday Messinger, the kid brother, "to get the girl away from her shiftless relatives, her lover has her quarantined while she is out of town. Matters are more than complicated when some one really does become sick, but the hero finally receives forgiveness and the lovely Laura as his bride.
Jack Hoxie, the star of "Wolf Tracks," is forced to accept the identity of a notorious criminal even in the eyes of the girl whom he loves (Edna Murray). The picture is a picture of the outlaw woman who makes the supreme sacrifice, and Al Smith is the wolf. With the tragedy and mystery of a notorious criminal, the picture is introduced by Kate Price and Tom Linahan, the nervous justice and his wife, who engage in a terrific fight with the wolf to rescue the little school teacher, Andrew.

AT THE BEVERLY.
Three serials start the motion picture program. Alma Rubens, Conrad Nagel and Wyndham Standing, an internationally known partner of Maurice, appear in "The Rejected Woman." The action of the picture calls for scenes in the city of London, the American desert and the steamship "Paris," all of which add much to the splendor of the production.
Alma Rubens is cast as the girl and Conrad Nagel the wealthy jazz loving city youth. For love of the girl, the girl risks her reputation with Wyndham Standing, the self-made man. The girl and boy meet in the Canadian woods and she follows him to New York, only to learn that she cannot adjust herself to his society life. In her effort to attract the hero, the girl falls into a trap laid for her by a wealthy admirer and for a time the picture is a picture of a woman's life. A dramatic and satisfying climax is reached at the finale.
Jack Hoxie, a good people and awfully mean, awfully wicked people, dominate "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model," with lovely Claire Windsor as Nellie. There are many spectacular scenes, one of which is a consummation of an elevated train and saved just in the nick of time. A fire at the factory makes show with Nellie the model as the chief attraction makes another big scene. Low Cady is as usual the villain, and Robert Bowdoin, the dual role of Robert Horton and Thomas Lipton.
Hot Gibson, the star of "Ride for Your Life," breaks all past records in his thrilling picture of skilful horsemanship. In this picture Hot is the livestock cowpuncher who loves the plains and fears no man. Picturesque and colorful California in the early days of the gold rush makes the locale for the production. Beautiful foot makes his record ride across

PARK DEVELOPMENT PLAN COMPLETED

Maps for Riverside, With Detailed Report, Received by City.

Containing a comprehensive plan for the general development and beautification of Janesville's Riverside park, a series of maps and a 14-page typewritten report of recommendations were received Friday by City Manager Henry Trasker from the landscape architect engaged by the city to plan the park—Charles H. Lawrence, Davenport, Ia. The program is so extensive that it will take many years to fulfill but the idea is to have a definite plan toward which the city may work, adding to it from year to year.
Just at this time the matter of roadway development is primary and city employees are engaged in clearing a stretch for one section of the series of drives proposed in the map.

Will Display Map.
The array of maps sent by Mr. Lawrence includes a large colored one showing every feature of the proposed development, including the location of the nine-hole golf course, open air theater, roads and entrances, athletic fields, tennis courts, bathing beach, boat house and so forth. It is proposed to have this map on display in some prominent place in the downtown district where it may be inspected by the general public.
Other maps received are in the form of blueprints, one of them showing the scheme for planting trees and shrubbery throughout the big tract.

Offers Great Opportunity.
In an introductory statement to his 14-page report, Mr. Lawrence tells of the great opportunity for community outdoor in developing the park and calls attention to its natural beauty. He says:
"Riverside park in Janesville's first large recreational park under development. In its development there will be many opportunities for the finest sort of constructive endeavor. There is an opportunity for expression for those inclined to be of personal endeavor, moral support, and financial assistance. This is the kind of which similar projects have been put through in other cities."

Woman Judge Prestidigit.
New York—For the first time in New York's history, a woman magistrate, Jean H. Norris, presided in homicide court, disposing of three cases.
MISS PRICHARD ELECTED.

some unforeseen local condition, but in general it should be noted that where many opinions constantly enter in as to what should be done and where policies and plans are continually changing, there is bound to be a chaotic result, expensive mistakes and unsatisfactory results.
This report is designed to explain the plan it accompanies and to reveal the reasons why it is desirable to have the park property in the manner suggested.
Is Up to People.
In the general report on the park, under the following sub-headings: "Riverside Park—Its Character," "Roads and Entrances," "General Areas," "Bathing Beach," "Tennis Courts," "Golf Course and Golf House," "Play Field," "General Sports," "Boating," "Outdoor Theater," "Structures," "General Esthetic Considerations," "Planting," "Park Administration," "The Park and the Public," and "Conclusion."

In his conclusion, Mr. Lawrence declares: "Riverside park, in its development alone, represents a long forward step in the field of park establishment in Janesville. It now remains for the people of today and tomorrow to use and develop this area to its fullest and greatest advantage."
Three pages are devoted to recommendations for the golf course, its layout, the general level of the greens, leveling and preparing greens, sand traps, grassy hollows and fairways.
Two pages are given over to a planting list providing for American elm trees, Norway maple, Honey locust, sugar maple, Schweitzer's red maple, Colorado blue spruce, Concolor fir, Austrian pine, weeping willow, hackberry, native walnut, native hawthorn, white oak, red oak, pin oak, sycamore, native butternut.
For shrubbery, the following are recommended: Native grey dogwood, native smooth sumach, native hazel, buckthorn, Russian olive and native thorn.

The Gazette will publish the report in full at an early date, along with a reproduction of the park map.

WHAT IS THE NAME OF THIS PICTURE?

"SWEEPING VARIATIONS OF LOVE'S OLD SWEET SONG"

J. M. Stark, R. P. D. A. Janesville, is the lucky bird this week in the Gazette's title picture contest, winning out over the largest field of entrants in several weeks. When Stark took a common one cent post card, wrote down the inscription, "Sweeping Variations of Love's Old Sweet Song," and mailed it to the Editor he had won the prize. The title Editor faced a busy afternoon of it selecting the best contest, and had to cut in his entire staff to go over the big list. There were many other good ones, among them, "Storing Up Information for a Debate," "Love's Old Sweet Song," "The Beginning of a Domestic Clean-up," "Roy M. Hartsel, Edgerton, R. P. D. 1," "A Chicken Thief," "C. Harrison, Valhalla, S. C.," "New Brown Sweepers Clean," and "A Sweeping Investigation," by several. "Feminine Literature Broadcasted," Wallace Merrill, Evansville; "A Head Letter Day," Harry Drake, Evansville; "An Open Opener," Mrs. R. L. Hilton, Janesville; "Taking Notes on the Skeleton in the Closet," Mrs. E. J. Berryman, Hanover; "What for First House-cleaning Brought to Light," George W. Lyon, Pittsburgh, Pa.

So much for last week. Now let's begin struggling with this week's offering and send in titles with a kick to 'em. Make 'em less than a dozen words in length and try several on one card if you wish; only be sure to put them on postal cards and have said mail reach the Title Editor's desk by Thursday noon. The winner will be announced next Saturday. Hoping you are the same.

Adults wishing to use the tennis courts or volleyball grounds, or other equipment during the evening after the regular season is closed, may do so by making arrangements with the directors of the grounds, according to Director Arthur Wheeler.

By making application in advance, the equipment requested will be left outside when the grounds close at 5:45, and the persons requesting its use will be responsible for it after that time. It is suggested that it will be taken home after the contests are finished, and returned the next morning.

NEW ANESTHETIC IS ANNOUNCED

Paris—A new anesthetic, known as "somnifere," which is claimed to be far superior to any hitherto employed, is being used by Dr. Fredot of the Hospital de la Nouvelle Pitie.

According to the account given the French Surgical society, the anesthetic is complete, permitting the longest and most arduous operation. The patient remains plunged for twenty-four to thirty-six hours afterward in a torpor, from which, however, he can be aroused from time to time for food. There is no sickness and no ill effects on the liver and kidneys.

Indictments already have been returned against Harry F. Sinclair, Edward Doheny and Albert Bacon Fall as a result of their investigation.

With martial law declared, and troops in control of the region, swift and inexorable punishment is expected to be given the anti-Bahai demonstrators who mobbed to death the American vice consul, Robert Imbrie, in Teheran, capital of Persia. Another American, Melin Seymour, is in a grave condition from injuries received when he and Imbrie were set upon by the mob while photographing a sacred shrine. Above is the parliament building in Teheran, where Persian representatives will meet to act on the grave situation caused by the crime. Right is a photo of Imbrie, and a map showing the location of Teheran.

Capital Threatened in Brazil Revolt

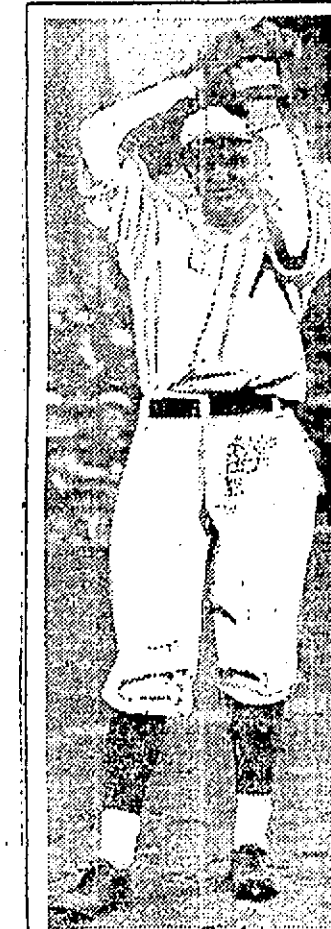

The revolutionary movement is reported to be spreading in Brazil and not only is the capital, Rio de Janeiro, in peril, but a world-wide coffee famine is threatened, because Santos, from where most of the world's coffee is shipped, is cut off from the cultivation districts.

The uprising, centering in Sao Paulo, is not an ordinary South American increasingly apparent. Here are shown a section of the threatened capital, Rio de Janeiro, and a photo of some of the types of marines being used by the federal government in its effort to quell the revolt.

Authorities have been seeking him everywhere on the charge of assaulting a girl member of his sect. It is now believed he is in hiding in "catcombs" under the colony at Benton Harbor, Mich., or in South Bend, Ind., minus his flowing beard and in full control of the affairs of his "subjects." He is shown (left) in regal attire, and (right) as he probably would look bewhiskered.

HOW TO CARE FOR IT

BY E. H. SCOTT

Some Tips On How To Prevent Trouble

The modern automobile, if it is treated properly, gives very little trouble. A large number of the troubles the average owner has with his car are not the fault of the car itself, but usually are the result of unskilled "finkering" on the part of the owner.

In the course of time certain parts of a car will wear and usually this causes looseness which can generally be taken up by an adjustment. Now here is where trouble very often starts. There are numbers of adjustments that can be made very easily by the average driver, providing he knows exactly what he is doing. You are only looking for trouble, however, when you attempt to make an adjustment that you do not thoroughly understand.

DO NOT touch an adjustment or alter any unit on your car or start tinkering with it because you THINK it is not quite right. If you do not KNOW for an absolute certainty that the adjustment is necessary or if you are not quite sure how to make it, you will save yourself a whole lot of trouble if you take your car to the service station and have one of their mechanics do the job for you. In this way you will see how the adjustment is made, then the next time the same adjustment is required, you can do it yourself.

Sometimes quite a simple trouble develops, but if it is not diagnosed correctly, you can get half a dozen things out of adjustment before you finish. We will say that because you hold the choke button pulled out too long and choke the cylinders with very rich mixture, the engine will not start. What do you do?

The first thing you SHOULD do is to push in the choke and turn the engine over about a dozen times to "air" the cylinders. You would then find that the engine would start. Suppose, however, that you do not do this, but get out and lift up the hood. You probably tickle the carburetor to see that the gasoline is coming through freely. You find that it is, so decide the carburetor mixture is not rich enough. You give the gasoline adjusting screw a turn then again try to start the engine.

You find that it still will not start, because when you tickled the carburetor you only made matters worse. DO have carburetor trouble, but you DID NOT have it before you tinkered with the carburetor.

Well, you say to yourself, if it is not carburetor trouble, it MUST be ignition trouble. If you are wise, you will now take out a spark plug and lay it on top of the cylinder while you turn over the engine and watch the plug points. You can then see whether there is any life in the ignition system or not. If there is a spark, you know that the contact breaker and distributor are all right so leave them alone. If you then take out the plugs to have a look at the gap at the points, you will find they are all right. However, when you take out the plugs you allow some air to get into the cylinders and dilute the mixture, with the result that when you again try to start the engine, it will fire.

On the other hand, you may decide that the trouble lies in the points of the contact breaker, and take off the distributor head and start to "fix" up the points. You probably "fix" them all right—so that very soon you may have ignition trouble added to your original trouble. In the finish you call in a mechanic, and it takes him two or three hours to do what would only have taken him about five minutes if you had not monkeyed with the Carburetor or Ignition.

Now I do not say that you should NEVER touch either the carburetor or ignition, but you will certainly be avoiding trouble if you leave both of these units alone until you understand exactly what you are doing when you DO touch them. Every carburetor and ignition manufacturer has an instruction book that explains the operation and care of his unit. If you study these booklets you will know just what to touch and what to leave alone.

Better still, when something goes wrong with either the carburetor or ignition, take your car to the service station and have a mechanic who understands and has an interest in your car make the adjustment for you.

The surest way to prevent trouble, is to periodically go round and test the tightness of all bolts and nuts on parts that are liable to work loose. Take a look at all electrical connections to see that they are clean and tight, and that no wires are rubbing through the insulation at any point. See that the battery is tightly wedged in place. Drain off some gasoline from the vacuum tank and carburetor float chamber now and again so as to remove any dirt or water that may have collected. Keep all parts of the car clean so that if anything becomes loose or broken, it can be noticed easily.

SUPERTWIST

Goodyear has perfected a new method of twisting cord fabric to give it much greater elasticity and long wearing qualities. Tires made of GOODYEAR SUPERTWIST have given as high as 100% more mileage than those manufactured in the customary way. A tire carcass built of GOODYEAR SUPERTWIST cord fabric is much more flexible and gives with road shocks instead of resisting them, and possibly breaking.

And remember, you get all these additional advantages without additional cost. Goodyears cost no more and serve a great deal longer.
